Two cars travel along a road heading in opposite directions. One driver is male, one female.

In another world, a woman falls to the ground, unconscious. People begin to crowd around her. Although most know CPR, they are scared to touch her chest - it is different to the dummies they have learnt on. They do not know that CPR is to be conducted the same way as on those male manikins: the heel of the hand placed on the lower breastbone with enough pressure to
